ERPFOCUS

ROOTSTOCK: AI-NATIVE ERP EXTENDED PROFILE

OVERVIEW

Rootstock is the cloud ERP built for product-centric companies: the businesses that build, sell, and service physical products.

The system unifies order management, inventory, production, supply chain, field service, projects, and financials, and it's built to be shaped to how you actually run the business, not the other way around. No rigid out-of-the-box process, no bolt-on integrations, no workarounds to make the software fit your operations. That configurability shows up everywhere, including in the field.

Technicians work from live data instead of yesterday's sync, which means fewer failed appointments and faster resolution. Finance, planning, and operations all work from the same real-time picture, structured the way your business actually operates. For companies already running on Salesforce, Rootstock is natively integrated, extending that same configurable foundation into your CRM without a separate sync layer.
